CELEBRATING 30 YEARS OF "MAKING MUSIC MAGIC"

2ND NOV.. PFC'S ANNUAL JUNIOR TALENT NIGHT

If your child or grandchild sings, or plays an instrument, why not bring them along to our November evening and join in a fun night. One song or tune is all that's needed but up to 3 for seasoned performers.

The Junior Talent segment will start off the night. There will be plenty of "senior talent" on display to round out the night. We have a full complement of "spot acts" booked, but if you're not booked in, please bring your instrument and join in the jam session.

No Workshop this month, but there will be the traditional Jam Session in the bar area commencing from about 5.30 till the stage acts commence at 6.30.

DECEMBER 7TH ..12 NOON TILL 5.00PM END OF YEAR EARLY CHRISTMAS PARTY

After surveying our members, there was overwhelming support for a continuation of the casual laid-back, jam session focused Social get-together... Lots of singing and playing, lots of good company to chat with, lots of food.. A few quiet drinks and that makes for a pleasant afternoon.

The day commences at midday, with an early BBQ lunch organized by your committee. The bar will be open for those who would like a drink.

As usual, NO BYO!

The day will be free to all PFC Members. For all non-members and guests, the cost will be $10.00 per head.

OCTOBER RAFFLE FOR CANCER RESEARCH.

Your Committee were absolutely “stoked” by the support from Members and friends for the special raffle held to support Cancer Research . Over $375 was received by the end of the night, and your Committee decided to add to that from Club Funds to make the amount up to $500.

Thank you to everyone who bought raffle tickets on the night and others who just made a donation

Thanks also to those who supplied the prizes, which meant everything received was all “profit “ for the cause.

GIRGARRE MOOSIC MUSTER JAN 9TH-11TH 2015

Peninsula Folk Club have been involved with Girgarre since it's inception. The 9th Moosic Muster promises to be another great weekend. If you've never been, your Committee would encourage you to give it a try... You'll be with some people you know in a very relaxed, laid-back atmosphere. PFC members are always involved on stage. The Girgarre Moosic Muster is a community run festival held in January each year in the small farming community of Girgarre, west of Shepparton in Victoria.

Been playing for a while and want some additional inspiration? The advanced workshops provide an opportunity for those who can already play and want to improve their skills. There will be a group of talented teachers to run the workshops. If you are able to assist in the running of the workshops, your help would be greatly appreciated.

- Weekend Registration Fee for campers: $50.00 - includes: Friday night sausage sizzle, Saturday night dinner, Sunday morning breakfast and camping.

SINGING FOR OLDER PEOPLE AND PEOPLE WITH DEMENTIA

As you may know, I am now “Singing for Seniors” which sees me singing in nursing homes and hostels (as well as Senior Citizens Clubs). I find it rewarding as people respond to music from their era.. Sometimes there is no response, but I am heartened by the knowledge that music can engage with people who are suffering from the ravages of dementia and Alzheimer's disease...

Following on with Max's article in August regarding music and the lad with Autism, I'd like to share some notes from the Alzheimer's Foundation of America..... Peter Stanley

MUSIC

Music has power—especially for individuals with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. And it can spark compelling outcomes even in the very late stages of the disease. When used appropriately, music can shift mood, manage stress-induced agitation, stimulate positive interactions, facilitate cognitive function, and coordinate motor movements.

This happens because rhythmic and other well-rehearsed responses require little to no cognitive or mental processing. They are influenced by the motor center of the brain that responds directly to auditory rhythmic cues. A person's ability to engage in music, particularly rhythm playing and singing, remains intact late into the disease process because, again, these activities do not mandate cognitive functioning for success.

MUSIC ASSOCIATIONS. Most people associate music with important events and a wide array of emotions. The connection can be so strong that hearing a tune long after the occurrence evokes a memory of it.

Prior experience with the piece is the greatest indicator of an individual's likely response. A melody that is soothing for one person may remind another of the loss of a loved one and be tragically sad.

If the links with the music are unknown, it is difficult to predict an individual's response. Therefore, observe a person's reaction to a particular arrangement and discontinue it if it evokes distress, such as agitation, facial grimaces or increasing muscular tension.

SELECTIONS FROM THE INDIVIDUAL'S YOUNG ADULT YEARS—ages 18 to 25—are most likely to have the strongest responses and the most potential for engagement.

Unfamiliar music can also be beneficial because it carries no memories or emotions. This may be the best choice when developing new responses, such as physical relaxation designed to manage stress or enhance sleep.

As individuals progress into late-stage dementia, music from their childhood, such as folk songs, work well. Singing these songs in the language in which they were learned sparks the greatest involvement.

SOUND OF MUSIC. Typically, “stimulative music” activates, while “sedative music” quiets. Stimulative music, with percussive sounds and fairly quick tempos, tends to naturally promote movement, such as toe taps. Look to dance tunes of any era for examples. Slightly stimulative music can assist with activities of daily living: for example, at mealtime to rouse individuals who tend to fall asleep at the table or during bathing to facilitate movement from one room to another.

The Hokey Pokey

Shakespearean Style

O proud left foot, that ventures quick within
Then soon upon a backward journey lithe.
Anon, once more the gesture, then begin;
Command sinistral pedestal to writhe.
Commence thou then the fervid Hokey-Poke.
A mad gyration, hips in wanton swirl.
To spin! A wilde release from heaven's yoke.
Blessed dervish! Surely canst go, girl.
The Hoke, the poke--banish now thy doubt
Verily, I say, 'tis what it is all about.

THE ANSWER IS BLOWIN' IN THE WIND

A group of Swedish scientists with a lot of time on their hands have spent the last 17 years competing to see who can sneak the most Bob Dylan lyrics into their research papers.

The competition apparently began when two scientists published a paper about flatulence titled "Nitric Oxide and inflammation: The answer is blowing in the wind."

A few years later, a very well-read librarian spotted a second Dylan-themed paper and introduced the two teams. The competition eventually expanded to include five scientists. But there's no reason to get excited, the scientists kindly spoke in an interview with The Local. "We're not talking about scientific papers - we could have got in trouble for that - but rather articles we have written about research by others, book, introductions, editorials and things like that," Eddie Weitzberg told The Local.

They expect to be released from the bet any day now, saying it's all over when one of them
